Manager Commentary

Central Bureau Statistics of Indonesia (BPS) announced January 2020 inflation at +0.39% MoM (vs consensus inflation +0.46%, +0.34% in December 2019). On yearly basis, inflation was +2.68% YoY (vs consensus inflation +2.84%, +2.72% in December 2019). Core inflation was printed at +2.88% YoY (vs consensus inflation +3.00%, +3.02% in December 2019). The MoM inflation was higher compared December 2019 which was mostly contributed by the higher inflation on raw food, beverage, and tobacco group. The higher of food prices was mostly affected by flood in the beginning of January 2020. While, the increasing of tobacco prices itself was caused by the implementation of tobacco excise per January 2020. In the Board of Governors' Meeting on 22nd and 23rd January 2020, Bank Indonesia kept the BI 7-day Reverse Repo Rate unchanged on 5.00%, also maintaining the Deposit Facility (DF) and Lending Facility (LF) rates at 4.25% and 5.75%, respectively. This policy is still supported by manageable inflation that within target range as well. Rupiah appreciated by -1.75% to 13,662/USD at end of December 2019 from 13,901/USD in previous month. Indonesia's trade balance recorded deficit amounting to USD -28mn in December 2019 vs previous month deficit USD -1,331mn. The lower deficit in Dec 2019 was helped by higher export number on non-oil and gas export (CPO export increased 25.80% MoM). Non-oil and gas trade balance in December 2019 recorded surplus USD +942mn, while the previous month resulted deficit amounting to USD -300.8mn. Meanwhile, oil and gas trade balance still recorded deficit to USD -971mn in December 2019, lower than the deficit on November 2019 amounting to USD -1,029mn. The lower deficit was helped by increasing in crude oil export compared with previous month. The Indonesia' actual GDP growth 4Q19 recorded 4.97%YoY, lower than the previous quarter of 5.02%YoY. Throughout 2019, economic growth recorded 5.02%, lower compared to 5.17% in FY2018. Growth was mainly caused by private consumption which grew 4.97% in FY 2019. Even though, the private consumption still grew positively, it was lower compared with growth in FY 2018, 5.08% YoY. The lower consumption growth was reflected in the slowing down of retail sales and motorcycle & car sales. Overall, the slowing down of Indonesia's economy was affected by slowing down of global trade and investment.

IDR Government bond yields were closed lower across all curves on the back of offshore inflows in line with IDR appreciation. Actually, bond market was quite volatile in January 2020. Market was opened with bearish tone on the back of geopolitics tension between US and Iran. Then, it was having bullish tone again after both of US and China agreed to sign the trade deal phase 1 on 15 January 2020. The foreign investor kept coming to Indonesia's market for couple weeks which was also supported by higher bond supply in market with attractive yield. However, there was selling action in the end of the month where the yield was going back to be higher and the 10yr touching the 6.75% level again. The negative sentiment of this was caused by fearing of Coronavirus around the world and market players were concerned that it will give significant impact to China's economics which could affect to global growth as well. Offshore accounts increased their holding by IDR +15.20tn in January 2020 (+1.43% MoM), to IDR 1,077.06tn as of 31 Jan 2020 from IDR 1,061.86tn as of 31 Dec 2019, which brought their holding to 38.65% of total outstanding tradable government bond (from 38.57% in the previous month). The 5Y yield Jan 2020 ended -37bps lower to +6.07% (+6.44% in Dec 2019), 10Y tenor ended -38bps lower to +6.68% (+7.06% in Dec 2019), 15Y tenor ended -36bps lower to +7.21% (+7.57% in Dec 2019) and 20Y tenor ended -19bps lower to +7.38% (+7.57% in Dec 2019).
