Manager Commentary

Global equities rallied over July, buoyed by further signs Of cooling inflation and hopes Of a soft landing for the US economy. The promise of additional stimulus measures from the Chinese authorities to boost the nation's stagnating economy further lifted sentiment, particularly in emerging markets. Energy stocks led the advance as oil prices gained, with the communication services sector also posting solid gains. In contrast, defensive sectors such as utilities, health care and consumer staples lagged. US bonds were mixed over July. Treasury bonds sold off as stronger-than-expected data caused the 10-year to retest 4.0%, a level last seen in March. Nevertheless, yields remained volatile, falling on weaker-than-expected inflation and job data before rising once more towards month end. Overall, the inversion of the yield curve became less extreme as yields on longer dated maturities rose more than those on shorter dated ones.
