Manager Commentary

LQ45 fell -5.41% on total return basis in June 2022. Foreign investors took profit during the period, selling Rp7.5t worth of equities. The technology sector, led by a recently IPOed tech giant, outperformed the market following weeks of sell-offs. The transportation and logistics counters, on the other hand, lagged. On the macro front, Indonesia's trade surplus dropped to USD2.9b in May from USD7.6b in the previous month. Exports decelerated while imports came in stronger than expected, contrary to market's expectation. Coal and crude palm oil (CPO) exports slowed on lower volume. Non-oil and-gas sectors imports accelerated as domestic business activities recovered. Elsewhere, Bank Indonesia (BI) maintained the benchmark rate at 3.5%. The Central Bank is confident on Rupiah's strength on the back of the country's solid current account and foreign direct investment (FDI) flows. Additionally, it expects inflation to hover around 4.2% for this year while expecting US Fed rate to reach 3.5% and 4% for 2022 and 2023 respectively. Indonesian equity market trended down during the month of June amid growth worries as well as weakness in oil price. Based on our market trend and fundamental assessment, the overall market outlook of Indonesian equities has weakened modestly while remaining in positive territory. As a result, we maintained a full investment positioning throughout June. The portfolio underperformed the benchmark in the month of June 2022. The underweight position in GOTO contributed to the bulk of the underperformance. Positive stock selections in the consumer staple sector managed to offset the negative return partially.
