Manager Commentary

LQ45 fell -0.48% on total return basis in November. Foreign investors remained net buyers during the period with USD43m of net inflow. The financial sector was the best performance in anticipation of margin expansions on an interest rate upcycle. Technology sector was the biggest loser due to its lofty valuation as well as imminent lock-up expiry. On the macro front, Indonesia's 3Q22 GPP accelerated to +5.72% year-on-year (YoY), beating expectation. The slack of a weaker private consumption was picked up by a stronger public expenditure as the government hastened its spending to meeting the 2022 budget. Fixed capital expenditure also rose by +5% YoY driven by the demand of capital equipment, signaling an improved capex cycle. Elsewhere, Bank Indonesia (BI) increased the benchmark rate by another 50bps to 5.25%. The Central Bank re-emphasized its intention to pre-empt inflation expectation and to ensure currency stability. Based on our market trend and fundamental assessment, the overall market valoko of 1000esi (ensure) we maintained an underweight positioning in equity (around 69%) over the month. The portfolio outperformed the benchmark in November. The underweight position in Goto contributed to bulk of the outperformance. Positive stock selections in the material sector also helped.
