Biden Promises Vaccines for All Adults in the US by the End of May 2021

The United States will have sufficient doses of the coronavirus vaccine for every adult in the country by the end of May, President Joe Biden announced on Tuesday, when production of the third vaccine will increase. During a press conference at the White House, Biden said he had asked the pharmaceutical company Merck & Co to help produce the newly approved vaccine made by Johnson & Johnson. The US already has contracts with Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna to supply 300 million doses of the COVID-19 vaccine, enough to vaccinate all adults by the end of July. But the addition of a viable third vaccine and additional production capacity pushes that timeline forward. "We are now on the right track to have enough vaccine supplies for every adult in America by the end of May," Biden told reporters.
